I am working on creating the content of my main webpage via HTML. I am making a bulleted list of my content. I will be making only one chapter of the five that I originally wanted to. I would like to make a dropdown box animation but I think that I will have to settle for a link that "goes to" a specific section of the page. I think the tips that I have at the end of sections will be at the bottom of the page almost like a footnotes kind of thing. I would like to have them be in an animated dropdown in final dev.